

Education

Understanding core challenges helps ensure solutions and services remain relevant and deliver best value

Imerja works closely with a number of major educational organisations, from individual colleges and universities through to regional strategic organisations responsible for the delivery and ongoing development of education services to schools and colleges across large areas.

Recognising the specific requirements of education institutions, Imerja has developed bespoke technical services and support packages. Key members of the Imerja team have worked in senior technical and managerial roles within the education sector, providing a valuable insight into the specific challenges these organisations face. Not just from an operational perspective, but also in terms of working within financial constraints and meeting peak seasonal demands.

“We’ve always been very pleased with the flexibility shown by Imerja, and the in-depth knowledge and availability of its engineers when needed.”
